

1 oz South African Gold Krugerrand (Random Year)

The Gold Krugerrand was released in 1967 as the world's first modern Gold bullion coin. Since its release, it has remained one of the most popular Gold coins ever minted, with a simple, classic design. Each 1 oz Gold coin represents two figures important to South Africans: Paul Kruger, the first and only South African president, and the Springbok antelope, which is the most populous antelope in this African country.

Gold Krugerrand coins combine history and Gold bullion appeal, making these 1 oz Gold coins consistently among the best-selling Gold coins in the world. Many 1 oz Gold coins have been produced over the years to compete with this classic release, but no matter what, the Gold Krugerrand enjoys popularity with investors and collectors
